LARGE EXHIBITION OF OILS ON DISPLAY IN ART ROOM

The largest art exhibit of the year is now on third floor Academic, overflowing from the studio, its base, into room 32. This collection is obtained from the Guild of Boston Artists, and sent out by the American Federation of Arts. The pictures are of a variety of subjects, with an especial appeal for everyone, but most of all for those to whom New England is home. Since the artists are largely of Boston they have incorporated into their landscapes, crashing seas and reserved portraits much of the charm of that section.

The pictures are on display at any time during the day when classes are not being held in the two rooms, and will remain at Sweet Briar until a week after examinations. During that time there is held a popularity contest for the pictures, during which everyone is asked to vote on her favorite, giving name and artist of the work.

There are twenty canvases in the collection. The first that strikes the eye on entering the room is a green wood which the artist, Dwight Blaney, has named "September." Next to it, a most colorful and impressionistic work, "On the Beach," is that of Charles H. Woodbury. Mr. Woodbury paints a great deal at Ogunquit, Maine, and there is the atmosphere of this art colony in the scene.

The longest of the pictures in the exhibition represents two little girls, almost alive in the exactness of their portrayal. This is "The Sisters," by Charles Hopkinson. Mr. Hopkinson has three war portraits in the National Gallery, which speaks sufficiently of his prominence.

Another portrait by a very famous artist and poet, Lilla Cabot Perry, is "The Two Friends." In this the spry little dog and the very life-like child vie with each other for the center of attention.

The next painting to which we come in order is the "Girl at Window," by Alice Ruggles-Schler. There is a glimpse of New England sunlight there, that speaks of the Massachusetts birth place of its artist.

Of another type is the imaginative picture of the "Merman," by Arthur P. Spear, in which the coloring is reminiscent of a ceph shell or the lining of a cloud. Mr. Spear is noted for his decorative work. Contingent to this is a

More Briar Patch Pictures Being Made

Harris and Ewing, Washington photographers, have sent out representatives to Sweet Briar again for Briar Patch pictures. This time they took pictures both of the "Paint and Patchers" and the Freshmen class groups.

After these the basketball Varsity and interclass teams, the hockey Varsity and interclass teams, and the heads of the various sports were photographed.

This artist also took several individual portraits, including the chairman of the mid-winter dance committee, who had been chosen since the last pictures were taken.

PRES. GLASS RETURNS FROM A. A. C. MEETING

President Glass returned Sunday from the meeting of the Association of American Colleges in Atlantic City, with interesting data concerning the curriculum matters, which he will discuss with the faculty.

She also brought with her notes on the research that Professors May and Hartshorn are conducting concerning the basis of character education. The whole student body would be interested in this research in connection with student government and character development.

At the meeting of the Association of American Colleges, President Glass spoke on The College Curriculum for Women. In her speech she said that all colleges have the following three aims: To quicken the inquisitive attitude toward the world and to supply all available knowledge to satisfy it; to orient the students for probable future life; to train the student for a definite pursuit. The ideal education, she said, would combine these three aims.

But, since four college years do not allow enough time for this, the most valuable education for women would be a college course aiming toward the quickening of an inquisitive attitude toward the world and the supplying of all available knowledge to satisfy it, or toward "making the mind free of the world that man's intellect has conquered." Such a course, she said, broadening and leading to further growth, would cause a woman more readily "to attain herself to the wider knowledge of man and the world, and thus to be able to pursue her activities with an attitude of understanding and with adjustment to new truth and new social needs."

President Glass stressed the importance of a variety of curricula, suited to the varying personalities and tastes of women.

Virginia Launches Plan For War Memorial

Virginia is one of the few states which, at this date, nearly ten years after the armistice, is still without any memorial of any kind to the soldiers who served in the great World War. For some time there has been some agitation for such a memorial and public sentiment prompted action by the last General Assembly, creating a War Memorial Commission, with Senator Thomas Downing as Chairman to make an investigation and report as to the erection of such a memorial.

The type of memorial decided upon is a carillon, which is to be set in a gigantic granite tower, rising two hundred feet high. The carillon is a set of bells attached to the piano or organ to intervals of the chromatic scale. The bells are many in number, the lowest weighing a few tons, and the smaller grading down to twenty or thirty pounds. The carillon is played mechanically or may be played as the pipe organ. Its tremendous volume will enable it to be heard over the

Please remember that a course given only the first semester must be erased from your course card and schedule in the Recording Office.

GRACE B. LEWIS, Registrar.

Board Of Overseers Meets

On January 21, the Board of Overseers will meet here to consider campaign plans and also plans for the new Library, Auditorium and Gymnasium.

"Once In A Blue Moon" Due, To Sun's Eclipse

"Once in a blue moon" received a natural explanation in Belfast, when during a total eclipse of the sun, the moon took on a decidedly blue tinge. As total eclipses happen only once in many years, the origin of the popular saying becomes plausible. At other places than Belfast, however, the moon resembled copper or tarnished brass during the eclipse. In London it was colorless, for the fog completely eclipsed the eclipse.

MID-WINTER DANCE DATE IS CHANGED

The date of the mid-winter dance has been changed from February 3rd to February 10th. This change seemed necessary as the University of Virginia arranged to have its dances on the 3rd also.

Katherine Emery will lead the second figure, that for the "old" girls, which will follow the Sophomore figure.

A request is made by the committee that girls sign up immediately, since it is necessary in making certain arrangements to know the number of those wishing to attend the dance. It is not necessary to pay the five dollar fee until later when the admission cards are given out. The signing may be done with Sally Beahard, 252 Randolph, or with Mary Moss, 3 Randolph.

It is advisable for those wishing guests to be accommodated at the Boxwood Inn to sign up with Miss Avena for them as soon as possible on account of the limited number of rooms.

The customary ruling will still be held that only men from places outside of Virginia will be able to remain over the week-end after the dance Friday night.

A. A. U. W. Will Present Plays Soon

The faculty members of the A. A. U. W. are rehearsing for two one-act plays, "The Neighborhood" and "A Night in Spain." On account of the date for the midwinter dance being changed this entertainment will not be given until after February 10th.

London String Quartet Plays Varied Program

The London String Quartet, consisting of John Pennington, 1st violin; Thomas Petre, 2nd violin; H. Waldo Warner, viola, and C. Warwick Evans, cello, gave an enjoyable concert at Sweet Briar on January 13th.

The program consisted of:

- I. Quartet for strings in F, Opus 50, No. 1.
- Ravel.
- II. Quartet in F.
- Haydn.
- III. Quartet in D, Opus 64, No. 5.

This well balanced program was exquisitely played. The musicians' performance on their fine tuned instruments was exceptionally well done. Each being an artist on his own instrument and all playing in perfect accord made the whole concert approach perfection.

The glorious richness of the music of Beethoven, the charming modern harmonies of Ravel, and the tuneful, friendly music of Haydn, all exquisitely and beautifully presented by four good musicians, held the audience of Sweet Briar spell bound. As an encore, the quartet played a lovely Nocturne by Chopin. The whole concert was enthusiastically received and heartily enjoyed.

The News Staff wishes you all good luck in your examinations.

SWEET BRIAR PARTY WILL TOUR EUROPE THIS SUMMER

With Dr. Connor as conductor, and Miss Frazer as chaperone, an extensive tour of Europe is being planned for Sweet Briar girls this summer.

An unusually comprehensive itinerary was arranged by Dr. Connor with the Students Travel Club during the holidays in New York. This presents the advantage of being one of the few private parties run by an organization which took over two thousand students to Europe last year.

In spite of the ever-present topic of exams, interest in the Sweet Briar trip seems to be maintained. About twenty of the girls went home at Christmas, armed with Travel Club literature and many excellent arguments suitable for parents. Already about ten of them seem to have been successful in storming the parental pocket-book for the necessary $750.

According to present plans the party will sail from New York for Havre on the "Tusculum" on June 15th, going straight to Paris, and from there to the Riviera, Rome and Naples, returning by way of Florence, Venice, the Italian lakes and Switzerland.

There will be three days of motoring on the Grand Alpine Tour, and the trip through the Black Forest is also made by automobile. This is followed by Heidelberg, Wiesbaden, and a boat trip down the Rhine to Cologne.

After visiting Belgium and Holland, the party will cross to London, then motor through the English lake district to Edinburgh and the Trossachs. The return trip be made by sailing from Glasgow to Montreal on one of the cabin steamers recently converted by the Cunard line to all-tourist class.

By making early reservations very excellent accommodations are available on this boat. The trip will last for two months. However, stop-over privileges are obtainable and it is possible to spend an extra two or three weeks with friends in London or Paris at the conclusion of the tour.

Meanwhile, Dr. Connor is making a collection of travel books in the library and will suggest a reading list. From time to time, for those wise ones who wish to do their reading before they start rather than on the trip.

Death Of Poet Lecturer Mourned By Many

Mrs. Marguerite Wilkinson, poet, who was to lecture here on Friday, January 20th, was drowned in the surf off Coney Island, on January 12th, while taking one of the icy dips advised by her physician.

Mrs. Wilkinson was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, forty-five years ago, but came to the United States as a child. She graduated from Northwestern University, and was living in New York at the time of her death.

She was the author of several books of poetry, the best known of which is New Voices, an anthology of modern poetry. Some of her other books are, The Great Dream, Wye Fire, Blue Stones, and The Way of the Masters.

Mrs. Wilkinson's death was a great disappointment to Sweet Briar, for her lecture had been anticipated with pleasure for some time.

Sweet Briar. The enthusiastic letter about the luncheon has recently been received from Mrs. Kurt Beckmann, (Mary Louise Price '26). She wrote of the eager way in which all of the "old girls" received the news of Sweet Briar from the present students. Mrs. C. Vaughan (Edna Sweet Briar '26) writes that she will be before long. There are about 28 young matrons and girls who have come to Sweet Briar from that city, and from all reports of them, they still seem to be vitally interested in their Alma Mater and promise to be excellent alumnae material.

Hikes May Be Arranged To Complete Semester Hiking Points

Due to approaching exams, the hiking leaders among others, will be very busy. However, if there are any who perhaps prefer to "airate" their brains before the final test will they please see Owen Olcott about it. There will be no hike scheduled for this Saturday, but this will not prevent those who desire, from earning a few more points. Below is a list of those near the border line and the number of points they need to get:

Sophomores And Juniors Win First Team Games.

The first basketball games of the season were played last Friday afternoon in the gym. They ended in the triumph of the Sophomores over the Seniors by the score of 33-22, and the victory of the Juniors over the Freshmen by the score of 24-22. Both games were fast and exciting. The passing of the Sophomores forwards, Olcott and Lyon, was especially fine.

The Junior Freshman teams were very evenly matched. Whitaker, as forward, and Taylor, as side-center, were the high lights of the Freshmen team, while McGaughey, center, and McDiarmid, forward, did fine work for the Juniors. An idea of how closely contested was this game is given by the fact that at the end of the third quarter the Freshmen were ahead, 22 to 18. The Freshmen passing improved throughout the game, but at the last they felt the loss on fouls, of their two forwards.

Both games were well worth watching, as the spectators will testify. The line-up was as follows:

Seniors: Sophomores:
Forward—Claybrook, Olcott
Forward—Sunderland, Lyon
Center—Wood, Kumm
Side-center—Bunting, Stone
Guard—Sollitt, Spruill
Guard—Jays, Martindale
Junior: Freshmen:
Forward—Gubelman, Whitaker
Forward—McDiarmid, Kelly
Center—McGaughey, J. Gibbs
Side-center—Copeland, Taylor
Guard—H. Williams, Swift
Guard—McNure, Ware
Substitutes in Junior-Freshmen game—Copeland, for McGaughey; Prior for Copeland; McGaughey, for McNure.
Substitutes in Senior-Sophomore game—Tabor, for Jays.

Tilden In Lead For Eighth Time

The American Tennis ranking list for 1927 has already been agreed upon, but will not be disclosed until February 11th, when the annual meeting of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association will convene in Chicago. "Big Bill" will be the No. 1 man for the eighth successive year. However, it is not of much satisfaction for the tall American who has been forced to yield the national title to Rene Lacoste of France, for the past two seasons.

There will be even keener interest when the rest of the American ranking is disclosed. Frank Hunter, who was Tilden's partner in the doubles last year, will probably take the second place. The best Hunter has ever placed before was 8th, in 1923.

"Little Bill" Johnston will probably drop from fourth place. The probable first ten will be arranged somewhat along this order:

1. Tilden.
2. Alonso.
3. Hunter.
4. Lott.
5. Hennessy.
6. White.
7. Johnston.
8. Doeg.
9. Van Ryan.
10. Jones.

Radio Telenian to Home Receiver Is Demonstrated.

"Another human conquest of space" was demonstrated on Friday, January 13, when the figure of the broadcaster was seen as well as his voice being heard over a radio in a darkened room of the General Electric Company's radio laboratories in Schenectady, N. Y.

It was the first demonstration of telenian broadcasting and proved to those present that in a few years homes throughout the world will be connected by sight as they have been by voice.

At the top of the set was an aperture three by three inches and within it would float slowly back and forth the figure of the announcer, as on a motion picture screen.

The possibilities of telenian have been demonstrated before but this was the first actual demonstration. The comparatively simple instrument used gave no hint of the years' and years of experimenting and tedious processes of trial and error which it took to produce this combination of sound and appearance. Some of the engineers predict that within five years most of the homes now possessing loud speakers will have some of these wonderful instruments.

David Sarnoff, general manager of the Radio-Corporation of America, stated that it was "an epoch making development." "It was an event, like the demonstration of wireless telegraphy by Barcani, when he sent the first message thru the air for a mile or two." And he predicts that "in five years telenian will be an art and an industry in this country."

President Visiting in Cuba.

Havana is agog over the coming of President Coolidge, who will be the first President to visit Cuba. The United States will follow a conciliatory policy at the Pan-American Conference, which will be in session for six weeks. The President's opening message may be epochal in the history of the Pan-American movement.

Relations with Mexico are much improved and the principal worry of the American delegates will be to explain and defend the administration's policy in Latin America.

Marines Kill Nicaraguan Rebels.

Forty Rebels were slain by the United States marines bombing planes. The Sandino stronghold has been the concentration point and 1,200 men are being rushed to the front to carry on the drive. The question remains as to whether the policy of the marines will be merely defensive or whether they will push an expeditionary force into the territory held by the Rebels under General Sandino.

The political situation remains tense. Sandino refuses to compromise and reports have been received of an attempt to poison General Manzanilla, liberal leader who agreed to the Steinson peace terms.

India Wants Absolute Freedom.

Mahatma Gandhi is not in favor of exchanging British rule for Russian. India has become self-conscious enough as a nation to realize that to accept the aid of one nation in order that she might throw off the yoke of another would only result in her being under obligation to the ally nation. The most progressive Indians aim at ultimate freedom for their nation—that freedom to be met by India alone and unaided.

suffering would probably be the immediate result—but he also believes that with a little time and experience India would "find herself." And the fact has to be realized that no nation can prove herself worthy of self-government without a chance.

Great Britain doesn't seem to be able to agree with India on this point yet, and there is little wonder.

Boxwood Inn-terests.

Mrs. Carl Fischer, of Englewood, N. J., is visiting her daughter Anne, who is in the Infirmary.

Miss Grace Leigh Duncan, of Browder, N. Y., who has been staying at the Inn since the middle of November, left Wednesday morning for New York City, where she has business to attend. From there she will go to California where she expects to reside. Miss Duncan was a room-mate of Miss Jane Weatherlow at Wellfleet.

Among the distinguished people whom the Inn has entertained were John Pennington, Thomas Petre, Jr., Waldo Warner, and C. Warwick Evans, all members of the London String Quartet. Although these gentlemen have been making annual tours in this country for many years, their visit to Sweet Briar was their first experience in "plantation life."

Virginia Launches Plan For War Memorial.

entire city of Richmond, where it will be located, and the chimneys will also be broadcasted by radio to all parts of the state as well as other states. This is therefore the only type of memorial that may justly be claimed by all citizens of Virginia, for the possibility of the radio places it in every home. In addition to the carillon, which will consist of over sixty bells, there will be a gigantic bell of fifteen feet in diameter, located at the top of the tower. This bell will be dedicated to the Gold Star Mothers of Virginia. The base of the tower and the wings will be used as a museum. Between these and the belfry will be five stories to be used for various purposes and accessible by an elevator.

The tower will be in the old Colonial style of architecture, which is so characteristic of Virginia, and it was designed by Ralph Cram, of Boston, who is one of the leading architects of the country.

This movement is sponsored by practically the leading Men's and Women's organizations of the state, and is headed by the Virginia Citizens' Carrillon Committee, headed by Granville G. Valentine, as chairman. Public sentiment all over the state is in favor of it as a worthy memorial to our World War dead.

At present the matter awaits action from the General Assembly of 1928. It is to be greatly hoped that this memorial will be erected. It will contribute daily to the enjoyment and spiritual elevation of the state, and will nobly serve assemblages of the people on all state and municipal occasions. The great miracle of the twentieth-century, the radio—has made the carillon or singing tower the most appropriate and effective form of memorial to keep the sacrifices of a great community in constant remembrance. It is in remembrance, not only of those who see it, but also the millions of people who will never see it, distant perhaps by thousands of miles. On great anniversaries such as Armistice Day, Lee's birthday, and Memorial Day, radio will carry to Virginians everywhere music appropriate to the day.

A great and worthy movement has been begun, and with co-operation and facilitation it will be effected.

Infirmary Outlook Is Cheerful

The news from the Infirmary this week is quite encouraging. No infectious diseases have appeared so far, and all who have been ill are improving.

Mrs. Paine who has been in bed with tonsillitis, is much better. Martha Henderson who has been threatened with mastoid, is improving, and her mother left Saturday night.

Dorothea Paddock has had appendicitis, but is now better. Her grandmother, Mrs. Arthur E. Bateman, has been visiting her and is staying at Miss Mattie Patterson's. Mrs. Bateman completes a trip of two mothers and a grandmother who have paid visits to the Infirmary this week, the other two being Mrs. H. M. Henderson and Mrs. Carl Fischer.

Naomi Doty and Nancy Pickett, who have been at home with appendicitis, will return at the beginning of the second semester.

Miss Bondreaux who has been ill since Christmas vacation with influenza, will not return till after examinations.

colorful depicting of the upper surface of the sea, "The Harbor of Palermo." Other sea scenes are "Rockport in Winter," and "The Ground Swell." Passing from these turbulent scenes there are several still life groups to be considered. "The Yellow Horseman," by Frederick Garrison Hall, startling in its reality; "Peonies," by Ernest Major; "Lilies and Dragon," by John Sharmau.

Other portraits not heretofore mentioned are "Ballet Girl in Blue," by the artist who shows us these vivacious subjects behind the scene, by Louis Krosberg; a sober work, "Charlotte de Grey," by Gertrude Fluke; an appealing and very personal "Portrait of My Mother," by Lillian Wescott Hale.

Scenes of equal beauty with those spoken of above are "Bald Mountain," in which the lights are painted so realistically that one involuntarily looks around for the sun, by Aldro T. Hibbard; "Storm Clouds," by William J. Kaula; "By the River," a work of Phillip Little; "Landscape," by Dudley H. Murphy; There is one rather remarkable interior "Blue Room at the White House," by Charles Bittinger, which completes the collection.
